

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Lives of Six People Endangered When Brakes of Automobile Refuse to Act.

The mountain road here was the scene of an accident Sunday that was nothing short of marvelous for an escape from three if not four fatalities. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Morris and two children, of Indianapolis, Ind., en route to Florida, started down the mountain road two miles up the mountain from here, having come over the mountain from Tracy City, and when part way down the brake refused to act and the automobile became unmanageable and ran away. The men of the party shouted to the women to jump, at the same time jumping themselves. Mrs. Crawford jumped at the word of warning and was thrown headlong down the steep slope of the mountain, sustaining a bruised shoulder, a fractured arm, and a bad gash on her nose. Mrs. Morris and the two children, terror-stricken, remained in the car, which running headlong, dashed into a bank and stopped. The occupants were uninjured. The fact that the road is very sinuous, with frequent curves, in this case proved the saving of the lives of the three, remaining in the car, who if the auto had dashed over the opposite side of the road instead of the side next to the mountain, would have been instantly killed in a wild flight down the mountain side which is very steep and rocky. The party came on to Sequachee where the injuries of Mrs. Crawford were treated and the auto repaired sufficient for the party to proceed to Chattanooga.

HELD FOR TRIAL FOR ARSON

GUILD, Tenn., Nov. 5.—Walter Henry and Frank Henry who were arrested at Guild for houseburning, housebreaking and robbery last week, at preliminary trial before Justice S. B. Raulston, were bound over to court in $1000 bail. In default of this, they were committed to jail. They were accused of burning their meat shop at Guild, and it is reported when interference was made and an effort made to put out the fire, they cut the hose line with their knives, so that water could not be procured.

Special to the News.

Allow me a little space in your columns and I will try to tell you a few of the happenings in our little vicinity.
Bro. Osborne, our "old-new" preacher, filled his regular appointment here Sunday, preaching to a small but very attentive little congregation. This makes Bro. Osborne's third year on this circuit, and most of people that I have heard express themselves are very much delighted to get him back with us again and he expresses himself as being well pleased to come back to this charge. So, if he is satisfied and his followers are all satisfied, and all will work together we think a great deal of good will be the result.

Corn gathering through the week and going to the lock and dam on Sunday seems to be the order of the day. Nearly everybody and their kinfolks went over last Sunday to the lock and dam to see the sights, and from the reports the sights were there. They tell me that old people and young people, white people and black people, large people and small people, drunk people and sober people were there. I was told that a certain old man had whiskey there by the quarts and by the pints, and was selling openly and publicly, and our deputy sheriffs all around there. Mr. Editor, when our court convenes, what ought the grand jury to do with and to such officers? Men that will stand with uplifted hands and solemnly swear by the help of Almighty God that they will endeavor with all their skill and ability to maintain the laws of our land, and will then walk around and see these open violations and never offer to suppress the lawlessness. I say, what ought to be done?

Well, for fear I might say something that somebody might not like I guess I had better change my topic and tell of a few who passed our way Sunday, going to see the sights at the lock and dam. The first we writer saw going in that direction was Jno. W. Miller, Leonard Billingsley, Melvin Moore, Elijah Grayson and all his family, Joe Griffith and Tom Holcamp and their wives, from Whitwell, Daniel Pitman and his good lady, Alvin Billingsley, D. D. Lewis and others. I can't think of all of them now, but I think nearly all the rest were there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Billingsley and little sons, Ernest and Hubert, visited Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Lewis Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pitman, of Sequachee called on the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Pitman, Saturday night and Sunday.

James W. Pitman and son, Walter, called at William Long's Sunday to see his sick child. She has been very low but the doctor says she is out of danger now, and with the proper attention will recover. Dr. K. Shelton has been the attending physician.

Ye writer took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. James W. Pitman Sunday, and enjoyed a feast of fresh meat and splendid new sorghum. Jim has bought a sorghum mill and is running for what there is in it, so he says, and he has on hand some very fine sorghum.

Well, for fear I am taking too much space, I had better ring off for this time.

DEWEES-ALEXANDER

The following is from the Chattanooga News concerning the wedding of Miss Gertrude Alexander to Mr. Warren A. Dewees, Jr., which took place at Jasper yesterday evening:

Prominent among the beautiful nuptials of the early winter, is the marriage of Miss Gertrude Alexander and Mr. Warren A. Dewees, Jr., which is celebrated this evening at 6 o'clock at the beautiful home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Alexander, in Jasper, Tenn. The home is elaborately decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns and the entire lower floor is a perfect picture in the profusion of flowers. In planning the wedding, a color motif of pink, green and white is carried out and is extremely effective. In the spacious parlor and living room thrown together, where the ceremony took place, is a bower of white flowers. The improvised altar here is of palms and ferns, and everywhere in the room are the gorgeous white chrysanthemums. Silver candelabras burning white tapers adorn the cabinets. In the receiving room pink chrysanthemums and ferns form a dainty decoration, and the dining room, where a buffet supper is served the guests following the ceremony, is ablaze with Killarney roses. The centerpiece of the table is a basket of the chosen flowers with streamers of pink tulle and smilax suspending from the chandeliers. The candlesticks have pink shades, harmonizing with the color motif of pink. Assisting in the diningroom are a number of girls and matrons, among the out of town guests.

The wedding ceremony at 6 o'clock is performed by Rev. Standifer, a close friend of the family. The nuptial music will be given by Mr. Oscar Seagle, brother-in-law of the groom, and Yves Nat, the noted pianist.

The bride is attended by Miss Augusta Gardenhire and Miss Lulu Brown, as bridesmaids. The bridesmaids are wearing pretty gowns of pale green messaline, made en traine; their veils are of pink tulle and their flowers are arm bouquets of pink roses. Mrs. Alvin Spears, sister of the bride, is the matron of honor, and is wearing a handsome gown of pink messaline and carries an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Daintily gowned are the little attendants, Fannie Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Anderson Brown, and Williamina Anderson, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson, who are ribbon bearers, forming the aisle strewn with flowers for the bridal party. The little flower girls are Hazel Alexander, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Alexander, and little Martha Spears. Their baskets are brimming with pink and white flowers.

The bride's dainty beauty is accentuated when she is wearing her beautiful bridal gown of white silk crepe, with trimmings of real lace. The bridal robe is made en traine and the long tulle veil has sprays of orange blossoms and reveals a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom is attended by his brother, Mr. Tom Dewees, who is best man, and the groomsmen are Messrs. Ernest Martin and Will Shepherd.

Following the wedding ceremony an informal reception will be held and a supper will be served for the out of town guests, including about twenty-five. After a wedding journey east, Mr. and Mrs. Dewees will be at home on Ft. Wood.

The Dewees-Alexander wedding this evening is of much social prominence, both bride and bridegroom being members of prominent families of the state. The bride is a beautiful and attractive girl and is a favorite in local society having spent much of her time here visiting her sister.

Mr. Dewees has a wide circle of friends and is a young man of social and business popularity. He is associated with his father, Mr. S. T. Dewees and uncle, W. A. Dewees, merchants of the city.

PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE

Or The Veteran to His Yankee Friends.

"I don't know if you know me, boys, but I'm from Tennessee. We may have met along the lines of Beauregard or Lee. I learned to hate you Yankee folks up on my daddy's knee. And yet it's different here, you know, it kind a' seems to me. That you've left your Yankee country and your 'e down in Tennessee. That you've left your Yankee country and you've come to stay with me. By the Himpid Looahatchie, in the land of Tennessee.

"I've heard a girl a-lanthing, like they laugh in Tennessee. It made me think another girl was back again with me. I've seen some steelblue eyes, as still as Giffen's head used to be. Your corn is growing better and the birds in every tree. Are singing up to Heaven, like they sing in Tennessee. You've left your Yankee country, and you've come to stay with me. By the Himpid Looahatchie, in the land of Tennessee.

"We don't hear much of the things that were in sixty-two and three. You Yankees hipped us ball and blade, our victory's yet to be. You cannot conquer Southern smiles, although you conquered Lee, and Stonewall Jackson's fighting, yet to try to make you see. That the ways of God are manifest, mysterious though they be, And so we lead you captive from your shelter in the lee. Of the sullen Yankee foothills, to the land of Tennessee.

REV. W. D. DEW SEVERELY POUNDED AT TRENTON

Rev. W. D. Dew, Trenton's new Methodist pastor, was subjected to a pounding Tuesday evening, and it may be several days before he fully recovers from the effects thereof.

The pounding given the popular pastor was not a physical beating but one which was delightfully engaged in by his parishoners and others, and one which he and his family will enjoy for several days to come.

Without the knowledge of Rev. Dew and his family, the members of his church and other citizens of Trenton swooped down upon the parsonage Tuesday night, each bringing a pound of something serviceable—several of the surprise guests brought packages weighing many pounds. Sugar, coffee, flour, lard, potatoes, meat and other articles too numerous to mention were contributed, all of which were thankfully received by the minister and his family.

Rev. Dew, in a neat little speech, thanked his new friends for this outpouring of their hospitality. Rev. O. C. Wright was called upon for a speech, but as he had just performed a marriage ceremony, he declared "all the speech was taken from him." After an hour of pleasant conversation all went home feeling better for having thus contributed to a man who has come among us to work for the upbuilding of our moral well being.

Trenton began this month to pay their preacher monthly and are using the duplex envelop system, practiced very generally in these days, and with much success. The October envelopes are now being sent in by subscribers, and just when a new preacher needs help most. All still behind should rush them in at once. It seems that all other charges in this circuit would do well to adopt this monthly payment system, since, too, it is not only a great help to the preacher, but an easier way of paying.—Trenton, Ga., Times.

UNCLE TOM'S LETTER

Well, "Owl," I rather like the aim and object of your box supper at Hick's Chapel for the benefit of Widow Hudson and her children. I am disposed to give it wide publicity from the fact you said everything went off quietly and nicely, which of itself was commendable. I think I know Miss Edith Holloway, and she certainly is a very pretty girl and if I remember rightly, she is a warm-hearted, genial girl which adds to her beauty no little. I guess if I had been there I would have helped Mr. Bridges. Permit me to comment a little on the supper. I'll venture to say all the participants got more out of that box supper than any supper they ever took part in. Now, honor bright, young folks and old ones, too, aren't you feeling good over it until yet. Now, you girls and boys repeat it and make it the work of your life to help the widows and the orphans of your communities, and it will beat box suppers for the church and Sunday school away yonder. This is helping Christ's little ones. I was so charmed with the story and the purposes of the supper, I told a packed house at prayer meeting of what you all had done and complimented you young people for it.

Well, "Valley Bird," I'll agree with you that the behavior of some children is just awful, but the children are not to blame so much as their parents and their teachers. Neither parents or teachers are any account, and some Sunday schools are nothing more than breeding places to spoil good well behaved children. I know what I am saying. Load monthed teachers in a Sunday school are a disgrace to the school. We had a lot of unruly kids here at Tracy that annoyed the railroad people no little. They didn't seem to care a pinch of snuff what anyone said to them, and their parents didn't seem to care, either, but the first session of the court at Tracy put a quietus on the whole gang by indicting four of the ring leaders. Since then not a boy in all of Tracy has been seen swinging to a moving car. Just one or two indictments cause the parents to sit up and take notice. Some of the parents blowed around considerably and talked very insulting about the grand jury, but I notice their boys stay off the cars all the same. It is necessary to learn the parents a lesson and that is what the parents of Patton Chapel need. Just a little interview with Judge McReynolds will abate the nuisance and save their kids.

Our court is near at hand here in old Grundy, and I am sure our grand jury will find out a lot about how things are going just over the line in Marion. It is easier for a fellow to tell about buying liquor out at Pryor Ridge, or just over the line than it is to tell about it in Grundy. It is reported that booze can be bought easily on the Marion side. Well, I am just writing from rumor and reliable rumor, I guess.

BANK SENSATION

AT PIKEVILLE

PIKEVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 3.—A sensation has been sprung in banking circles in Pikeville, from disclosures which show that $13,250 subscribed and unpaid subscriptions are due the creditors of the defunct People's Bank of Pikeville. The trustee in charge of the liquidation of the affairs of the bank, N. J. Ferguson, has filed a bill in chancery court to allow him to collect this amount and apply it to the assets of the bank. The following shows the amounts of unpaid subscriptions: S. S. Ferguson, $750; S. M. McReynolds, $1000; J. P. Barnett, $1000; J. J. Kelly, $1000; W. R. Pope, $2500; R. B. Hutcheson, $1000; J. D. Hembree, $3000; F. M. Henry, $500; S. M. Pope, $250; Joe W. Pope, $250; Barnett, Hutcheson and S. M. Pope are dead, but their representatives are held responsible for the amounts. These amounts are alleged to have been subscribed 21 years ago, and never paid. Criminal prosecution is threatened against the officials of the People's Bank by some of the depositors, who recite that while it is forbidden by state law of 1911 for a bank to receive deposits when insolvent, that the bank has been insolvent since 1906.
